Course Description

In Advanced Digital Imaging, students build on the knowledge learned in Digital Imaging. It is required that students take Digital Imaging before taking Advanced Digital Imaging.

This is a project-based class and success depends on the effort each student is willing to commit to the creative process. This class emphasizes professional practice and includes longer term projects in collaboration with outside organizations. This class emulates a professional design studio and tackles a diverse array of design problems throughout the semester. This class has a highly collaborative environment and it is imperative that students taking advanced imaging are not only proficient, but are also willing to participate fully in the group discussions, critiques, and evaluations.

Grading

This course is graded via portfolio coupled with grade proposals in writing at the quarter and semester. All work and projects must be completed.
